The NV Brut Premier Cru Reserve is simply gorgeous in its rich, broad expression of fruit. The wine reveals a wonderful smokiness along with notes of Pinot and tons of Verzenay character in a focused, energetic finish. This is an exceptionally polished, complete wine. NV Brut is 50% Chardonnay, 45% Pinot Noir and 5% Pinot Meunier. Disgorged: Summer, 2008. Anticipated maturity: 2009-2013. Godme is a small producer based in Verzenay, in the Montagne de Reims. This year Godme provided broad disgorgement dates whereas last year the estate was more specific, but readers will find no information about disgorgements on these labels. With the exception of the NV Brut Rose, all of these wines were disgorged around the same time as the bottles I tasted last year, although there is no way for you or I to know that for sure, once again highlighting the ridiculous state of affairs producers and importers expect consumers to put up with. A Becky Wasserman Selection, imported by: Willette Wines, New York, NY; tel. The NV Brut Reserve Premier Cru reveals suggestions of butter, ripe pears, apricots and flowers with pretty, slightly oxidative notes that add considerable complexity. The finish is long, sweet and utterly irresistible. This soft, generous Champagne should drink beautifully over the next few years. This is Lot L01050108, disgorged July 18th, 2008. Anticipated maturity: 2008-2010. This is a beautiful set of wines from Godme, a small grower based in Verzenay. A Becky Wasserman Selection, imported by: Sherbrooke Cellars, White Plains, NY; tel.
